MISSISSIPPI RIVER IMPROVEMENT. National Associated Press to the Star.

National Associated Frees to the Star.

Washington, March 2.—The report of the Mississippi River Commission is an elaborate and masterly document, and its conclusions afford the highest gratifications to friends and representatives of the great interests involved. It has performed duties under the act of June 28th, 1879, to mature plans for the improvement of the river to the evening and asked for a place to lie so locate and deepen the channel as to down, as he was sick. He had been on a protect its banks and give safety to commerce. After reference to previous scien-tific labors and the work now in progress by the coast survey and officers of the Commission the Board discuss various systems of improvement

They are not prepared to submit a full and detailed report with estimates of final and detailed report with estimates of final c st upon any of the general systems of river improvements. The general principle kept in view has been the plan which would concentrate rather than disperse the waters of the river as the principal agent in securing the needed improvement.

STATE AND U. S. AUTHORITY. In the matter of Judge Coles and the Commonwealth of Virginia, petition for writ of habeas corpus, Mr. Justice Field dissents from the ruling of the Court. J. D. Coles is Judge of the Pennsylvania County Court, and was arrested on a war-rant issued by the District Court on an indictment founded on Fourth Section of act of Congress Masch 1, 1875, which declares that "no citizen shall be disqualified in any Court of the United States, or any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude; and any officer charged with the duty of selecting or summoning jurors who shall exclude or fail to summon any citizen for cause aforesaid, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of misdemennor," etc.

Judge Coles is now held in custody and petitions for certiori to said Court to send up record of its proceedings and for writ of habeas corpus, alleging that its action was without jurisdiction and that his imorisonment thereunder is unlawful and prays to be released therefrom. Commonwealth of Virginia presents a similar petition declaring that she is deprived of the services of her Judicial Officer. Judge Field after stating the laws of Virginia relative to summoning of juries, holds that United States District Court exceeded its jurisdiction, that the act in the section referred to, so far as it relates to State Courts is unconstitutional and void. Mr. Justice Clifford concurs in this dissenting opinion. TEST CASES DECIDED.

The Virginia and West Virginia colored uror test cases and Tennessee Revenue Liw removal cases were decided in the U. S. Supreme Court, the estimions being delivered by Justice Strong. The cases were decided on their merits, and the reault was against the States.
